Dear Bus:

The Senior Seminar participants were delighted that you could spare the time to address them on 7 October. A firsthand account of "Military Factors in the Formulation of Foreign Policy" by one of your depth of experience was most valuable to our senior officers.

Thank you for visiting with us, and I hope your schedule will permit return engagements in the future.

Sincerely,

Richard Helms

Dear Sir:

The Senior Seminar participants were delighted that you could spare the time to address them on 7 October 1971. I cannot think of anyone more qualified than you to discuss "Military Factors in the Formulation of Foreign Policy." Consequently, I, too, am very pleased that you could visit with the Seminar members and share some of your experiences with them.

We hope your future schedule will permit return engagements. Hearing firsthand and having the opportunity to ask questions from an informed person with your background is indispensable to training courses for our senior officers.

With many thanks and warm personal regards, I am,

Sincerely,

Richard Helms
Director

Dear Bus:

The members of the Senior Seminar were very pleased to have you address them 7 October on the subject, "Military Factors in the Formulation of Foreign Policy." Your professional perspective nicely balanced that of several civilians who treated other aspects of foreign policy, including US-Soviet relations and the outlook for the SALT talks.

I wish to express my personal appreciation for your interest in the Seminar and hope we can have you return when the opportunity arises.

Sincerely,

Richard Helms
Director
